Excellent profile, but the recruiter screened her for the wrong role, so our availability was never confirmed.

Nine years of patient-facing phone work with a 5.5-year current stint, a 95% QA score and a clean attendance record, and her answers on difficult callers are exactly the concierge tone we want. The recruiter's call sheet was for an outbound collections job on weekday daytime hours, so the only availability she confirmed is for a schedule we don't run. She said she is open to other shifts; one written confirmation settles it.

What the internal team needs to do to decide

☐ Ask the recruiter to send Valeria our shift grid (morning, afternoon, evening, graveyard CST, 7 days) and have her confirm in writing which she can commit to, including weekends. Commits to at least one shift with weekends → GREEN; weekdays only → RED.

Positives

- [#1] Alorica May 2021–present (5.5 yrs); hospital patient services ~5 yrs before
- [#5] "A nervous person can't hear instructions until they feel safe"
- [#2] Inbound pharmacy-benefits calls plus surgical pre-op and follow-up calls
- [#6] Names a real weakness (systems speed) and asks trainers for shortcuts

Concerns / things to confirm

- [#8] Only confirmed weekday mornings (the off-spec role); 7-day availability unknown
- [#7] Brief background noise at 06:10; she closed the door right away. Confirm in interview.
- [#3] Accent not directly assessed; recruiter reports clear English
